Helpful Preceptor Resources

The School of Pharmacy provides access to Pharmacist's Letter and Access Pharmacy for all of our preceptors.

Pharmacist's Letter has a Preceptor Training and Resource Network that can help you further your skills as a preceptor and gain further knowledge in all areas of introductory and advanced practice experiences.

Access Pharmacy is another great site that provides solutions for meeting the changing demands in pharmacy education. Among the items available are fully integrated drug information, editorial reviews on recent clinical trials and case and care studies with interactive training.

For more information on how you can access these programs and take advantage of the information they provide please visit our website that is listed at the bottom of the page. We have a section for preceptor resources and hope that you will find them useful.

Multiple E*Value Accounts?

Many preceptors already have E*Value accounts from their work with other schools and we would like to help combine those accounts with the ones from our program to make things easier. Ideally when you log in you are given the option to choose which program you are logging in for, but if that option is not available please send an email to rmetzger@umc.edu and we will work with our representatives at E*Value to get your accounts combined and eliminate the need for keeping up with multiple logins for a single website.
