E*Value: First Time Around

The first APPE rotation using the new E*Value system is coming to a close and it seems that the transition so far has gone very well.

As a reminder here are the most important things that we are looking for preceptors to have completed by the end of the rotation:

Midpoint Evaluation

This evaluation is sent mid-way through the rotation and is a simple 2 question evaluation about your student's performance thus far on the rotation.

Transcript Review

During the rotation students submit comments and provide samples of their work into their student transcripts. At the end of the rotation you have a chance to review the transcripts and provide any additional comments and verify that you have had a chance to review.

Final Evaluation

Also, at the end of the rotation you will need to submit the Final Evaluation of your student and grade them on their performance throughout the rotation.

Please feel free to contact us at any time to give us feedback or any questions you may have about using the E*Value system.
